Clinic staff received professional development training in 6 patient care topics

CCH operates a Primary Care Clinic, a PT/OT Rehab Clinic, and a pharmacy. We provide school nurses 3 days a week at 3 rural schools, so that the nurses can treat sick children, teach health and hygiene lessons, and answer health-related questions from parents. We also send our mobile clinic out to partner schools to provide free wellness checks and medicine for students 1-3 times per year. All of our healthcare services are provided at low or no cost with sliding scale fees so that healthcare is accessible to ALL who walk through our doors.

In the first half of 2024, pharmaceutical costs have skyrocketed while their availability has decreased. We are struggling to keep our Clinics stocked with everything our patients need. We continue to seek out partnerships and shipping options to help alleviate this strain.

A MESSAGE FROM A CCH SCHOOL CLINIC PATIENT

Charles Ander

One weekend I cut my arm playing with friends. My parents took me to a doctor who gave me some stitches, but it was still hurting a lot. When I came to school, Nurse Betty Paul (photo: right) took a look at my arm and told me it was infected. I needed to go to the CCH Clinic where the doctor said I needed surgery. My parents took me to the hospital, and I'm all better now. I'm really glad that my school nurse was checking on me!

A MESSAGE FROM A CCH PARTNER SCHOOL TEACHER

Sherley Floritanti

I have always loved children. As a teacher, I enjoy inviting my students to understand what I'm teaching. I get to know the children in my class easily and that makes them and me feel good. I have really benefited from the CCH trainings. I'd like to become more proficient in the new skills and implement what I've learned in my classroom.

CCH has invested over a year in 4 of our principals becoming Instructional Coaches for their schools. In July, they were able to attend a week of on-site training with education experts from CCH partner organizations Model School Network, Summits Education, & Blue Butterfly.

Teachers trained at CCH professional development seminars

"I'm Jean Felando. My sister and I go to EMEVO primary school. I like it because my teacher takes the time to explain things to me so I can understand. She never lets me get behind the other kids in my lessons.

I love the lunch I get at school. It's nice to go back to class with a full belly. Some of the other kids at school don't get breakfast before school or dinner at home, so the food is really important."

A MESSAGE
FROM A CCH
COMMUNITY
PARTNER

Melia Garreaud

I've lived in the Savonne du Bois neighborhood for decades. Before CCH built latrines here, my 4 children and I relieved ourselves by the riverbank. I am very grateful for my sanitary latrine now. I also let my neighbors use it so we can keep our community healthier and not spread diseases. CCH blessed us so that we can bless others.

CCH continues to partner with 8 different communities around Jacmel, Haiti, offering livestock programs like goats and beekeeping to help families earn a living. We work with leaders to assess their community's strengths and weaknesses, then we match up areas where they need assistance with available resources at CCH or from other providers. We also gather community leaders together for training seminars on farming best practices, how to develop a project and get funding for it, and how to communicate effectively to improve program success.
